CODE OF ETHICS TO CHECK MALPRACTICES AND PLAGIARISM IN RESEARCH FOR ECC

Ethic is the most important element in the process of teaching and research. It is the moral principle that governs a person's behaviour. It refers to doing right morally and legally in research.

According to the Research excellence framework 2014, research is "A process of investigation leading to new insight, effectively shared". Thus the college is committed to producing academic freedom and innovative thinking with highest Standard of integrity which is professionally appropriate.

OBJECTIVES

- ▶ To create academic awareness for students, faculty and other members of academic staff about research ethics.
- ▶ To promote and maintain integrity in academic research and practice culture of honesty and transparency in the institutional activities.
- ▶ To avoid plagiarism by paraphrasing, citing, quoting and referencing the original source.
- ▶ To ensure originality of the content by checking in an anti-plagiarism software.
- ▶ To avoid any fabrication, falsification and misrepresentation of data or result.

Code of Ethics

1. Faculty members are encouraged and have the full freedom in research and publication, but are advice to strictly adhere to World Intellectual Property Organisation (WIPO) guidelines on Intellectual Property Rights(IPR).
2. Any research or project work undertaken by the faculty or the students should duly credit the writer or the cited source.
3. Students are encouraged to follow the principles of IPR, in their assignment and project works.
4. Though not undermining the provision of freedom of expression, faculty and students are encouraged to be sensitive and avoid unnecessary controversy through their research works.
5. Outmost integrity professionalism are demanded from the faculty and students who wish to publish research works under the college banner.
6. Detection of any plagiarised element will invite penalties as per IPR guidelines.
